

A Mom's Poem and Thanksgiving to God

Never could imagine life without you.

I see you growing in my womb, my stomach protruding with delight.

Never could imagine life without you. Hearing the beating of ur heart, Viewing your image on the ultrasound monitor. Anticipation of holding, seeing you, meeting you, wrapping my arms around you. You, me, us...It's Life! Never could imagine life without you.

The day finally arrives, & inspite of the pain, I anxiously await our first meeting.

Here you are, those beautiful eyes, such perfect fingers & toes, arms that desire a mother's touch. A cry that craves the warmth of food a mother provides. Grateful, that my choice changed from a permanant descion that this moment I would not have been able to share with you, my baby, my love. Never could imagine my life without you.

Trials we will endure, people will come & go, needs we will have, yet God said in his word He will supply all of our needs. I trust him, even when I can't trust or understand myself or others around me. I'm blessed beyond measure because God chose me, to be a mother to someone as wonderful as you. Who knows whom you will one day become? Yet I know that with God the possibilities are Endless.

Through your birth, I truly can say I never could imagine my life without you, my baby, my love. Thank you for loving me unconditionally with your whole being. This day forward, I daily plan my life with you...

Written by: Tironda Newton; A single mother of four wonderful children ages 18,16,12 & 3 months. Written for me first. Yet written to and for all the mothers who are contemplating abortion. Abortion is permanent! It hurts the hearts, minds, spirits & souls of you & those around you. Yet, most of all, it hurts the little person inside you. Life speaks from the first day of conception. Let it speak and let it live. God's plans are always best.
